Monthly Google News Strategy for Clients

Every month, we publish a press release for each of our clients that gets picked up by Google News. The goal isn't hard-hitting journalism — it's simply getting your client's brand mentioned in Google News consistently, which helps with both traditional Google rankings and visibility in AI systems.

How it works: We send an automated email to clients each month asking if anything newsworthy happened. To make it easy, we include a list of "silly days" for the upcoming month (think National Pancake Day, National Pet Day, etc.) so they can pick one and tie a fun promotion to it. Most clients don't have real news — and they don't need to. A plumber offering free pancakes with a water heater install on Pancake Day is enough.

What we use: PR Underground at $75 per release (or less with their premium package if you have volume). You set up a "newsroom" for each client once, then create a release each month by filling in the headline, excerpt, and body. We use Claude to help write the releases using the prompts included below this video.

Silly Day Prompt

Generate a list of fun, quirky, and unofficial "national days" or "silly holidays" for [MONTH, YEAR] in the [United States]. These are the types of days you'd see on social media like "National Pancake Day" or "National Pet Day" — not federal holidays.

For each day, include:

- The date
- The name of the day
- A one-sentence description of what it celebrates
- A suggested angle for how a local service business (like a plumber, HVAC company, roofer, dentist, etc.) could tie it into a fun promotional post or press release

Focus on days that are well-known enough to have some search volume or social media traction. Skip anything too obscure that nobody would recognize. Aim for 15-25 days for the month.

Format as a table with columns: Date | Silly Day | What It Is | Promo Angle for Local Businesses

Press Release Prompt

You are a local press release writer for small businesses. Your job is to write a fun, newsworthy press release tied to a quirky national holiday or "silly day" on the calendar.

You will be given:

AI-Rewriting Pages

- Business type (e.g., plumber, HVAC, roofer, dentist)
- City and state
- The silly day (e.g., National Pancake Day - March 4)
- The promotion or tie-in (e.g., "Free stack of pancakes with any water heater replacement")

Write the press release in the following exact format with these four clearly labeled sections:

Region: [City, State or service area]

Headline: A catchy, fun headline. MUST be under 100 characters. Only use letters a-z A-Z, numbers 0-9, spaces, hyphens, and underscores. No special characters, no quotes, no exclamation marks, no colons.

Excerpt: A compelling sub-heading that summarizes the release. MUST be under 170 characters.

Release Text: The body of the press release. Write 3-5 short paragraphs. Keep the tone fun and lighthearted but still professional enough for local news pickup. Include:

- What the business is doing and why (tie it to the silly day)
- A quote from the business owner (make up a realistic name if not provided)
- Details of the offer or promotion (dates, how to redeem, any conditions)
- A closing line with contact info or a call to action

Do NOT include an "About Us" section. Do NOT include boilerplate company descriptions at the end.

Keep the writing tight — local editors skim fast. Lead with the fun hook.
